

WAR NOW SHIFTED TO FIELD OF DIPLOMACY

Mark's Fill Beautiful Mosque of St. Sophia
With Cholera Patients to Prevent Victors
From Occupying Famous Edifice

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The war has ended for a time from the fields of battle to that of diplomacy. Plenipotentiaries for the belligerent powers meet tomorrow at the village of Compiègne, a few miles outside the city, for a preliminary discussion in terms of an armistice.

In the meantime, the Turkish, Bulgarian and Serbian commanders ordered a cessation of hostilities.
The armistice, which was signed yesterday, is not important, except in terms of the armistice. The war has been advanced, but it is almost certainly on the basis of the armistice that the states holding all conquered territory until a permanent treaty of peace is signed.

Cholera Hastens Peace.
The Turks are prepared to concede the Balkans largely upon the strength of the allies threatening Constantinople and the allies at which the cholera specter embarrassed their plans.

Cholera is counted on by the Turks to make the Bulgarians appear not to be making a serious effort to transform the mosque into a hospital and have crowded 2,000 cholera patients within its walls.

All Want Peace.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 20.—Nationalist commander-in-chief of the army, General Pasha, chief of staff of the war office and commander-in-chief of the navy, all have appointed the Ottoman plenipotentiaries for the negotiations an armistice with the Bulgarian plenipotentiaries.

Question of peace seems largely foregone. The fact that the all communications with regard to Bulgarian reply issued at Constantinople and Sofia make no mention of preliminary conditions has been commented, as it was generally felt that the Bulgarians would insist on the basis of the armistice.

Large Population of Americans in Stricken City, Near Jerusalem

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Although without confirmation of the reported massacre of Christians in the port city of Jaffa, Palestine, officials here admit they have been apprehensive of such troubles on the Syrian coast, where the religious differences between the Mohammedans and the Christians are more pronounced than in other parts of the Ottoman empire.

American interests in that quarter are large and important because of the extensive trade in the produce of the country, and because of the presence of a large number of American missionaries and educational institutions.

Within a radius of Jaffa which is the port of Jerusalem, are three important American missionary stations, Taybeh, Hama, and Ain Arab. There is also a large Jewish population but so far it is not known that the Jews have been disturbed by the Turks or Arabs.

Send Warship to Scene.
The foreign warship has been lying at Beirut, about 100 miles north of Jaffa, and presumably one of these has been dispatched to the latter port.

Admiral Kaulitz, of the German fleet, is now spending a few days at Beirut. His ship is expected to arrive at Jaffa tomorrow, and it will remain there for a few days.

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 20.—Reports of massacres of Christians in Jaffa, Palestine, caused the commander of the Russian warship, the Admiral Kaulitz, to depart hurriedly for that port.

The state department has been considering the possibility of sending an American warship to the scene of the tragedy. The Russian warship, the Admiral Kaulitz, is now at Beirut.

New Outlaw League May Swade the Western Circuit

St. Joseph Included to Aid Rival American Ass'n.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Rumors that certain clubs in the Western association and Western league are planning to be "baseball outlaws" and form a new league were confirmed here today.

President "Tip" O'Neill of the Western league admitted discussion of the proposed league had been going on for some time and that the matter took concrete form at a meeting of clubs held in Milwaukee last week. Club owners in the Western league are said to be included in the plans of the proposed league. The American association is supposed to have an option on a favorable piece of ground on Chicago's north side, and for several years has threatened to place a club in Chicago.

Plans of the proposed league, it is said, are to establish clubs in Chicago, Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Joseph and an eighth city yet to be selected.

"Nothing officially has been said to me regarding the proposed league," said President O'Neill.

"But the proposition, however, has reached me from other sources. I know there has been trouble for several weeks."

"I want it to be understood that I am in no way connected with the project. I am opposed to outlaw leagues."

BREEZY DOPE FROM STATE HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE GRID IRONS

Yesterday's chilly wind failed to slow down the Terrors in their practice for the state championship battle with Centennial at Washburn field Saturday.

The team was out early and went through a break bit of signal work just to get loosened up and then they went through the scrums. Coach Rife's new set of mystery plays worked well and using Centennial formations the scrubs failed to function very strong on offense. Special attention was paid to the education of the line of one, Rondo Fowler, who is beginning to realize that his good right foot may win the game. Interference running and smashing and running down under punts took up part of the time of the afternoon's workout.

Caplin Taylor is rallying from the thigh horse attack and will be in the top shape for the game. Chester and Shockey, who have been under the weather are rounding into shape.

Tonight will end the strenuous part of the drill before the game; only light signal work being planned for tomorrow.

Coach Rothgorn-Tigers, who have been practicing steadily during the last three evenings, went through some tougher work last night in preparation for the final engagement of the season with the Denver Broncos on Thanksgiving day, one week hence. Three defeats in a row have put the Black and Gold on its mettle to take the last battle and everything that the men themselves and Coach Rothgorn can do will be utilized in getting ready for the final game. Cheese, the main ground gainer for the Tigers this year is still limping slightly with a sprained ankle but will be in good shape for the Denver game. The other players are in good shape, but Coach Rothgorn is not planning a bit on having them go stale on his hands. With ten days between the Utah and Denver games, the Tigers should have little excuse for physical fitness in the closing struggle.

There will be a "sermon" of a more strenuous nature this afternoon.

PUEBLO, Nov. 20.—Knowing that they will be going against one of the best High school teams of the state Saturday when they meet the Terrors at Colorado Springs, the Centennial Bulldogs have commenced their hardest practice of the season, determined to carry off the state championship.

Coach Porter is putting his squad through the toughest kind of work and every man is going at it with a vim and vigor. Several new formations have been prepared especially for the Springs battle, so Centennial will not be forced to rely on the old plays which have been the downfall of all the southern state teams.

Will Enter Game in Fine Shape. "We will enter the game in the best shape we have played in all season. I am going to have the boys going better than ever before the end of the week," said Coach Porter today.

"We are not trying to fool ourselves into believing we are going to win easily. If we are victorious at all it will be only after the hardest fight the team has seen this year. The Terrors have a wonderful team for a high school or they could not have been able to make the showing they did against the strong schools from the northern part of the state."

"We will be playing against big odds in weight and experience, but every one of the boys is going in to do his best and we'll win if it's possible. We lose it certainly won't be overconfidence that beats us."

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 20.—In order that they may become somewhat accustomed to the high altitude, the members of the University of Oklahoma football team will come to Colorado a week before their Thanksgiving day game with the University of Colorado. It is not known just where they will carry on practice, but it is likely that they will select the State

Brickley Famous in Various Sports

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Charles Brickley, the sensational young forty and half back who won the game for the college in the first game with Princeton and whose name has been on the lips of football enthusiasts throughout the country, has achieved fame in more than one line of athletic endeavor. He was of the American team of athletes which competed in the recent Olympic games in Sweden, and performed creditably there on the top stepped jump event. In addition to this Brickley is a first-class basketball star. He captured the freshman title at Harvard last year and played a strong game behind the back. He also led the Eastern team against the West in the famous exhibition game in Sweden.

ROBBINS' AND WILDERS' TO PLAY FOOTBALL TOMORROW

The Robbins and Wilders football team will clash with the team representing the Wilders business college tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Pittsfield street grounds on Lincoln street. Both teams have been putting in some hard practice and the game should be fast.

The Robbins team will play the Manhattan high school aggregation Thanksgiving afternoon in the local Manhattan.

THE DUTY OF COLORADO PROGRESSIVES

THE conference of Colorado Progressives to be held in Denver Monday night should follow the example of the Progressives in Illinois, Pennsylvania and New York, and appoint committees to draw bills for a complete program of legislation to be presented in the coming session of the legislature.

In New York and Pennsylvania legislative committees have been appointed, consisting of the biggest and best-qualified men in the Progressive party, whose duty it shall be to draw up bills embodying every one of the platform pledges. These bills then will be introduced into the legislature.

In New York, among those on the committee are Oscar S. Straus, State Chairman Hotchkiss, Professor Samuel McCune Lindsay of Columbia, Dean Horace E. Cook of the agricultural school of St. Lawrence university, Miss Lillian D. Wald, head of the Henry Street settlement, and others of that caliber. The legislative committee in Pennsylvania will be headed by Dean William Draper Lewis of the University of Pennsylvania law school.

Only once before has a party ever submitted, in a legislature, a full program of legislation, the bills drawn by experts, intended to redeem every one of the platform pledges. That was in California, under Governor Hiram Johnson. Johnson, having the legislature behind him, succeeded in having every one of the bills enacted into law. The Progressives intend to adopt the Johnson plan in Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania. In Pennsylvania the Progressives, with progressive Democrats, control the legislature. In the two other states the Progressives are in a minority, but they will present their program and urge its adoption just the same.

Colorado by all means should follow the example of these states. In Colorado the Progressives will be in a small minority. But even though their representation in the legislature may be small, it will be large enough to make a record that will prove to the people how different from the two old parties is the Progressive party.

Bills embodying every pledge in the Progressive platform should be introduced into the coming session of the legislature. They should be carefully drawn by experts. And then the Progressive members of the legislature should force each bill to a vote.

If the people of Colorado are again to be betrayed by their legislators the Progressives should at least put the blame where it belongs.

DIVIDING THE SPOILS

THE shortest war ever fought, considering the decisive result, has probably reached an end. The Turks will hardly dare refuse the terms offered by the Balkan allies for an armistice. War was declared on October 18; the fighting has lasted just a little more than a month.

But in that month the Balkan allies have won practically everything they set out to accomplish. Adrianople, Janina and Scutari still hold out, but their fall is only a question of time. Constantinople has not been captured, but the allies never intended to occupy the Turkish capital, well knowing that this would not be permitted by the European powers.

Short though it has been, the war has been a bloody one, thousands of lives having been sacrificed. Cholera and typhoid have done their part, and the epidemics now raging may, before they are stamped out, cost the lives of many thousands more than have been killed by bullets.

It is just possible that the most dangerous phase of the war will begin with the signing of the armistice. Arrangement of peace terms will be a most difficult matter. Perhaps the allies have an understanding among themselves as to how they will divide the captured territory. If not, old jealousies among them are liable to lead to bad feeling, if not to renewed bloodshed. And even if the allies have an understanding, there are Austria and Russia, Germany, England, Italy and France to be considered. Austria in particular is alarmed over the possibility of the rise of a strong Balkan power on her southern border, and will do everything possible to prevent the allies from reaping the benefits of their successful war.

Diplomacy will be stretched to the breaking point during the next few weeks, but the possibility of a general European war is so frightful even to contemplate that it hardly seems possible the powers will permit themselves to be drawn into war over a division of the Turkish spoils.

A GUARDIAN OF THE PUBLIC

THERE is to be no "twilight zone" between the powers of nation and state in the regulation of power companies, if Secretary of the Interior Waller L. Fisher has his way. Mr. Fisher is determined that power companies using federal rights shall charge no more for their power than is just.

In the case of a dispute coming up from California he has informed the power companies that they must subject themselves to the regulation of the state utilities commission. If they resist the rulings of the commission, he says, and carry their cases to the federal courts, with the object of delaying final action, their federal licenses will be taken from them.

That sounds very much like the kind of man that's needed at the head of the department of the interior. As Fisher has never been a strict partisan, President-elect Wilson might well continue him at the head of the department where, since he succeeded Hallinger, he has done such splendid work.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

MRS. WELLS' LECTURES.

To the Editor of The Gazette.

In justice to a body of polytheists who worship in a little chapel at 513 North Prospect, we respectfully ask to be heard through the open Parliament. For five days last week Mrs. Wells lectured each afternoon at the First Methodist church in the interest of Home and Foreign Missions, apparently under the auspices of the International Council for Patriotic Service. About 15 minutes each day were devoted to the study of Mormonism and it is to those features that we wish to refer. The speaker confined her remarks to the consideration of the Utah problem and did not indicate a church of similar name, but left us to draw our own conclusions. We would have had thought to say, "This she did not do. But, instead, in her pretended account of the history of Mormonism she manifested either gross ignorance or a flagrant disregard for the truth. But for a bit of personal experience which the writer had with her, charity would demand that we regard that the errors made were due to a lack of information."

It will be remembered by those who were present that she stated that the Utah church had its origin in the church established by Joseph Smith in 1820 and that Brigham Young simply executed the designs of his predecessors. This we declare most emphatically is untrue. The Utah church, commonly called Mormons, also referred to as Latter Day Saints, was not established till after Joseph Smith had been killed. Brigham Young and those associated with him in the formation of the new or later church had been members of the true church of Jesus Christ, which members were known as Latter Day Saints and which name was taken by Young and his followers. But in the organization of his church he paid no regard to former rules, omitted some vital teachings, and introduced others entirely at variance with the tenets of the original body, yet retained enough of the former teachings to secure the endorsement of about 10 per cent of the members. The courts of our land have decided the question at least twice, and if Mrs. Wells and the council which employs her really wish to be known as being patriotic they would do well to give attention to these decisions, which have never been reversed. In 1880 Judge Sherman of Lake county, Ohio, rendered a decision from which we quote as follows: "That the church in Utah, has materially and largely departed from the faith, doctrines, laws, ordinances and usages of said original church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and has incorporated into its system of faith the doctrines of celestial marriage and a plurality of wives, and the doctrine of Adam-God worship, contrary to the laws and constitution of said original church. And the court do further find that the plaintiff, the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, is the true and lawful continuation of, and successor to the said original church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, organized in 1820, and entitled in law to all its rights and property."

Again in a suit brought before Judge Phillip of Independence, Mo., United States circuit court of appeals, December, 1894, at which time the Utah church submitted witnesses to prove that Joseph Smith was author of polygamy, we find in the decision: "It is charged that Joseph Smith, 'the martyr,' secretly taught and practiced polygamy and the Utah contingent furnishes the evidence and a few of the witnesses in support of this fact. It perhaps would be uncharitable to say that these women that they have borne false testimony as to their connection with Joseph Smith; but in view of all the evidence, and circumstances surrounding the alleged intercourse, it is difficult to escape the conclusion that at most they were but sports in 'nest-hiding.'"

I will now quote two men who were on the senatorial committee to determine whether Senator Smoot, of Utah, should be seated. The chairman, Senator Burrows, in speaking of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints adherents are patriotic, and law-abiding citizens scattered throughout the United States in small church societies conforming to the laws of their country wherever they may be and adhering to the faith of the founder of their creed, repudiating and denouncing the doctrine of polygamy and its attendant crimes, without temple, endowment house, or secret order, worship in the open air, other church organizations unquestioned and unimpeached."

He also states that "in order to induce his followers more readily to accept the infamy of the doctrine of polygamy, Brigham Young invoked the name of Joseph Smith." Cong. Record, December 13, 1906. Senator Dubois said of the members of the Reorganized church, with headquarters at Lamont, Iowa, (not Independence, Iowa, as stated by Mrs. Wells "wherever they are, no matter in what part of our country, are among the best of our citizens in all respects. They do not believe in polygamy. They never practiced polygamy. They discontinue it. They do not believe in church domination in political affairs. They are the same as other church organizations, and to their religion no one has any objection." Cong. Record, December 17, 1906. Please carefully consider the above.

Christian people ought not to be moved by sensational levers. Let not anyone be frightened by her report of "82,000 Mormons in Colorado." (At the Presbyterian church she gave the number as 88,000. A very rapid increase in two days, surely.) She (gives) that the Mormons would live in that we believe she made no mistake. But why should she make them to circulate one of their very big lies, if one lie can be greater than another? It is to the effect that Joseph Smith, in 1843, received a revelation in support of polygamy. In both public and private discussion we have met those who charge Smith with this doctrine and in no instance have they been successful in fastening the crime upon him, or the church he established.

Mrs. Wells appears to be somewhat familiar with present conditions in Utah, and when she professes to deal with "early history," standard books, etc., she makes "mistakes" of a serious nature. Facts felt keenly by the people of Utah and elsewhere, asked that a correction be made either by herself or by us. She refused to do it, and the privilege was also denied to us. Not once did we hear her advise her hearers to consult literature published by the Reorganized church. Was it because she knew that therein so many of her statements would be found utterly unreliable? This feature was concluded with the statement that a certain society in Boston had recently concluded that when any question of fact was to be settled, representatives of both churches were always called in to present "a most judiciously chosen" fact that there is some sort of an understanding working together of the two churches. We sought further information along that line but were met with positive refusal to "tell any more than she had said." If any society in Boston has given out such a statement they are guilty of dealing in monstrous falsehoods. She often told her audience to "look these matters up" but when some of us tried to do so we received no assistance from her.

The Utah church claims to be a continuation of the church established by Smith in 1820, and Mrs. Wells, in her lecture, in repudiation of various court decisions which decisions have already been referred to in this article, declares that these findings can hardly be urged by her, or for her by others, for we know of at least two unimpeachable efforts to take the facts to her. We were given to understand that she had all necessary facts. How easy it would have been to give them, but she would not.

In conversation with those in charge of the lectures we were told that an attack was being made upon us. Taking them at their word, we asked the privilege of placing some of our literature on the table along with that put out by the council. Requests denied. Our stenographer was not allowed the use of a table to copy on during the lecture. We were provided with a table at the Presbyterian church, but from some declarations made to us later, it appears that we were not at all welcome to it. We endeavored to secure the names of those who had been in attendance at the meetings and those having the cards would not permit us to copy the names. Must all such details be made in order to protect this noted lecturer? Since we were told that the attack is being made on our church, why this determined resistance toward any effort made by us. What have we done that we should merit such treatment at the hands of "Christian people?" Will some one tell us?

Some years ago, some ministers up in Canada thought our ministers had no right to solemnize a marriage because they said we were not a Christian body. The matter finally went to court. Chief Justice Armour, other judges concurring, said that after having examined all that has been submitted, he considered the teachings and practices of the Reorganized Church to be Christian in the highest sense.

Let it be remembered that we stand unalterably opposed to the infamous teachings and practices of the church having its headquarters at Salt Lake City, and seriously object to being classed with them by public lecturers. Anybody else, if any think that we are a part of the same movement, will gladly bear one-half the expense incurred in securing a place where the public may hear both sides. Error cannot be of benefit to all. The truth of things should be earnestly sought by all.

Remember that all Latter Day Saints are NOT Mormons. Mrs. Wells' references to the contrary notwithstanding. We will gladly furnish further information along the lines of our church work and its history to those who are willing to receive it.

Suggestions for Wedding Presents

By RUTH CAMERON.

To the person with a large circle of friends the problem of a wedding present often becomes almost as acute as that of the bride and the groom. As the bride's circle of friends is large, the gifts are in such popular marring times as these autumn months.

Unfortunately I can't help the pocketbook side of the problem, but I'm going to make bold to offer a few suggestions for the mental part of it.

Since the rebirth of the fire-places is an important part of the home, and, of course, long, and, of course, long, and, of course, long, the fire-places is likely to be more than a welcome gift and not a particularly common one.

Good reference books such as a dictionary, an encyclopedia, a thesaurus, a book of classical reference or of quotations make wedding gifts for which the recipients will probably be grateful to you every time they consult them.

Pictures are a beautiful gift but a little dangerous. However, if you can find a picture of a store and trust yourself to an intelligent clerk and tell him to pick out something safe, you can't go very far astray. You may not select one of the bride's favorites, but you won't get a picture that will be banished to the storeroom and be brought out only for your visit.

Some kind of mirror, a triple toilet mirror or one of those quaint, old-fashioned gift affairs, makes a very acceptable gift. I know one bride who exchanged a picture which she disliked for a mirror. "You get tired of the best pictures," her mother said, "but you'll never get tired of that."

Vases appeal to me as an especially attractive gift. If you like something quaint and a bit different, see what the Japanese stores have to offer. For an inexpensive wedding present I know of nothing that makes a better showing than half a dozen frappe glasses. As all kinds of desserts can be served in them they are extremely useful, and they can be bought for $3 a dozen, up. Several brides have told me that they have enjoyed their frappe glasses more than any other gift.

A table mirror for the center of the table is another inexpensive but very acceptable present. Remember that the value of a gift is practically doubled when it is just what the recipient wants. And if you are sufficiently well acquainted, ask the bride's mother or sisters, or intimate friends, for suggestions.

Don't be afraid to give something that represents labor instead of money. People are tired of that rare every year. No woman can fail to be delighted with a piece of embroidery, a very pretty shoe-case made of cretonne to match her bedroom hangings, a dozen tumblers of home-made jelly, accompanied by a little note saying "Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I unto thee" deeply touched and pleased another bride.

Truth be told, the best gift is the only thing about a wedding present that interests the recipient comes to the contrary.

The Busy Bee

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

The busy bee is a small, fuzzy animal with a great habit of minding its own business and almost unparalleled facilities for encouraging the casual passerby to do the same.

The bee is small and could not tick a grown man in a fist fight. But very few men want to creep up to an industrious bee and look over its shoulder to see what it is doing. If a bee must be approached it is best to meet him face to face and treat him with dignified respect. Even those who love the bee do not stroke him on the back. Those who have been in enthusiastic moments to do so have acquired a "hand" which could be strapped up and sold for a Virginia ham.

The busy bee gets up at daylight and toils with tremendous industry until dark, gathering honey and storing it away. He is the most industrious of all insects and is pointed out by philosophers as a model to the human race. While man is dawdling over his breakfast, or reading four acres of useless news, or trying to amuse a large automobile into action, the busy bee is nobly lugging honey to his hive in minute quantities without even pausing to admire the scenery.

"Minding its own business and almost unparalleled facilities for encouraging the casual passerby to do the same."

Thousands of lectures have been written on the bee's industry, but very few philosophers have paused to deprecate the bee's thick-headedness. No one writes harder than the bee or gets less out of it. Instead of attacking the wings and hiding his honey where it will do him the most good in winter, he allows himself to be tempted into a hive in the back yard of a conscientious farmer who permits him to roll over hours all summer and then smokes him out in the fall, takes his honey away and feeds him through the winter on sugared water.

For this reason we cannot admire the bee's industry. He is too much like the common man who is encouraged by earnest inspirational writers to rise at daybreak and tell what great thing in order to supply himself with enough property to enable the trust magnate to raise the price of beef.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Good fortune awaits you. Your natural love of the beautiful will be gratified in various ways and some of your dearest wishes will be fulfilled. Three hours today will be clever and especially gifted with perseverance. They will also have too much prejudice and passion, but the chances are that they will soon learn of their dangers.

IN THE PAST

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY
NOVEMBER 21, 1882

Prairie fires were burning east of Colorado Springs and doing considerable damage.

County Clerk Eaton was busy all day making out and forwarding certificates to the various El Paso county officers elected at the recent election.

Thomas Tribe of this city, had just received patents for his invention of a roller screen.

The city council decided to elect an expert to go over the city for the past five years.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. P. Eaton, Mr. Mrs. A. McCreary, John Himeel and family and W. R. Barnes family left for a visit to California.

A slightly successful afternoon was given at the El Paso club ladies belonging to the men families.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE SMOKE NUISANCE
VI.—THE PITTSBURG INVESTIGATION

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

With "A Cleaner Pittsburgh" as its aim, the department of industrial research of the University of Pittsburgh has undertaken an investigation into the hundred-and-one phases of the smoke nuisance. For care and determination to bring out the whole truth about smoke, this inquiry proposes to eclipse all that have gone before and to settle many unsolved problems to the satisfaction of those who complain the world's fight for smoke abatement.

With the funds for the investigation provided by one of those rare souls who finds a sufficient reward in following the scriptural injunction of not letting one hand know what the other gives, the work has had an auspicious beginning. These funds are furnished without the blare of trumpet or the fanfare of a publicity man, by one who believes that the greatest single problem that confronts the Pittsburgh district is that of abating the poll of gas and soot that made Pittsburgh famous as the "Smoky city." He gave this fund a year ago, and placed it in the hands of Professor Robert Kennedy Duncan, director of the department of industrial research, in the belief that a thorough investigation would reveal not only the nature, extent and precise causes of the smoke nuisance, but also the remedies that would make its abolition both possible and practicable.

Staff of Experts.
As soon as it could be done, Professor Duncan created a staff of 25 specialists to carry forward the work, six of whom are devoting their entire time to it, while the other 19 have been intrusted with the preparation of special reports concerning particular phases of the work. Dr. Raymond C. Bonner was made chief fellow and chemist of the investigation, and he entered upon his duties with a determination to probe to the very bottom of the problem and to analyze and diagnose the situation and then find a reliable, dependable and applicable remedy for the trouble. The investigators want to get accurate measurements of the effect of smoke on the weather, on plant life, on human conditions generally, on health, on architecture and on economic conditions. Then they want to take up the engineering problems of smoke abatement and the matter of legal administration with a view to making effective the lessons of the undertaking.

In starting into the work the investigators were not unimpaired of the fact that others have contributed much to the information on the subject, and that many facts have been sufficiently developed so as not to require further investigation. It is therefore, has collected all the literature extant upon the problem and has made the most exhaustive bibliography of the subject ever undertaken. In addition to this it is preparing a complete history of the smoke nuisance and the fight for its abatement in Europe and America.

Effect on Weather.
The first problem to demand attention was that of the relation of smoke and weather. Many investigations along this line have been made, but they seem to fall short of what the exacting mind of the scientist demands, and so Dr. H. R. Kimball of the United States weather bureau, was asked to measure the effect of smoke and soot upon fog, winds, temperature, sun, light and weather conditions generally. Inasmuch as similar investigations, both official and unofficial, have been made in a number of European countries, this investigation, for purposes of comparison and checking up, is based upon similar methods wherever those methods have been scientifically satisfactorily. Dr. Kimball's studies include the problems of atmospheric gases, suspended particles in the air, the dust layer at the earth's surface, the quantity of soot in city air, the limit of visibility, fog and fog dissipation, the effects of smoke clouds upon temperature, etc.

In these investigations data has been gathered from the weather stations at Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Philadelphia and Williamsport. Using chemical and photometrical methods, in the city atmosphere as well as in the smoke clouds upon temperature, etc.

The above estimates are based upon receipts and expenditures of the several departments the past 12 months. I believe them ample to meet all of the absolutely necessary requirements of the city, but it will be necessary for each and every department to practice the most rigid economy the coming year.

SUGAR CITY CONTESTS COUNTY SEAT ELECTION

His master, filed a contest against the locating of the permanent county seat at Ordway, claiming there was fraud and intimidation used at the last general election, and at the county seat election. Contestants, aver they can prove their allegations, such as the illegal counting of blank votes for Ordway that should not have been counted and that there was pressure brought to bear on voters of Sugar City, who changed the outcome of the election defeating Sugar Clegg for the county seat. The county commissioners accused of providing separate judges and clerks without authority, instead of using the same judges and clerks as at the general election. The county commissioners have 20 days in which to answer the charges. The case promises to be bitterly fought out on both sides.
